

LocalHarvest

real food, real farmers, real community

Looking for locally grown food?

More and more people are recognizing the benefits of locally grown foods for freshness, flavor, and nutrition. Every month, over 450,000 people use our national on-line directory to find locally grown, locally marketed food.

LocalHarvest.org helps you find CSAs (community supported agriculture projects), farmers markets, local orchards and u-pick berry farms, food co-ops, and restaurants that feature local foods. Over 20,000 family farms and farmers markets have created their own listing on LocalHarvest.org, and more are joining every week.

Try LocalHarvest.org today, and get to know your local farmers!

www.localharvest.org

What Users of LocalHarvest are Saying...

I just wanted to tell you how much I love this website! It is a treasure-trove of information. I am currently doing business with 2 farmers that I found [through the site], and the produce co-op I am in advertises on there as well. This is the kind of resource I have been looking for a very long time. Thank you, thank you!

— Cindy Gideon

I want to say that your site is wonderful. I have received much business from it. Local people who did not know I was here have found me through the LocalHarvest site and I have myself made contact with numerous farms and growers through it.

— *Veronica, The Herb Farm
Cape Cod, MA*